RUSSIANS BEAT NAZIS BACK IN UKRAINE

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

As I recall it, the Devalon Road (part of State Route 38) between Washington C. H. and Bloomingburg, was the finest road in Fayette County to be rebuilt along modern lines to meet automobile traffic.

I do not recall the exact year when the first part of the road was rebuilt, from Bloomingburg to a point near the intersection of the Eber Road, but I do recall that R. H. Shumway and Son, of Portsmouth, built the road, and the son had active charge of the rebuilding.

That was back more than 30 years ago and I think the original roadbed, as rebuilt then, has not been disturbed since that time, except to widen it somewhat.

I recall that a great many persons watched the construction with deep interest, because they had never seen such a depth of crushed stone applied to a road.

The surface was not extra smooth, as the skill in leveling new highways was not as marked as it became in later years.

Sometime ago I mentioned in this column that Ed Weaver, former Fayette County Commissioner, had in his possession the hand-made shovel of an old "skip jack" used in covering rows of corn after the corn had been planted by hand during the early days in Fayette County.

A short time ago Harold E. Breakfield, residing west of Rock Mills, informed me that he has an entire "skip jack," including the hand made wooden frame as well as the hand made square nosed shovel used in covering corn.

It seems that this spring Tom Jett wanted a plow to furrow out some potato ground, so he uncovered the skip jack, not realizing what it had been used for, and proceeded to furrow his potato ground.

When informed what the plow really was, Tom said he wondered why the shovel was square at the end.

I hope H. E. saves that skip jack for the Fayette County Museum that is coming up some of these days!

FIRST LADY OF U. S. IS IN NEW ZEALAND

Longest Journey Yet—Mode of Travel Unrevealed

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived today in this provincial capital, completing the longest journey of the many she has made since entering the White House in 1933.

(Mrs. Roosevelt's mode of travel was not disclosed in this dispatch from Auckland, which is approximately 6,500 miles by air from the nearest point on the west coast of the United States.)

Last year Mrs. Roosevelt visited Great Britain, where she toured American army camps and recreation centers and was the guest of King George and Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace.

Mrs. Roosevelt was greeted on her arrival by the governor-general of New Zealand, Sir Cyril Louis Norton Newall, and high ranking American and New Zealand officers.

She will visit American hospital and Red Cross center.

Auckland is the capital of Auckland province and is situated on the north island of New Zealand.

FRENCH SET-UP IS APPROVED BY ALL OF ALLIES

One of First Announced Results of War Council Is Endorsed by Russia

MOVE ONLY WAR MEASURE

No Attempt Made To Control France or Government After Liberation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The seal of Soviet Russia's approval was stamped today on one of the first announced diplomatic results of the Quebec conference formal recognition of the De Gaulle-Giraud committee of national liberation as "trustees" of French interests.

The Russians apparently went a step further than President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in welcoming the French committee into the Allied fold as the representative of millions of Frenchmen fighting for freedom.

For, the announcement from Moscow declared that the group headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud would be recognized as the "representative of the state interest of the French republic and as the leader of interests of the French republic and of all French patriots fighting against the Hitlerite tyranny."

The Soviet report, broadcast by the Moscow radio, said that the Russian decision of recognition had been handed to the French committee Aug. 26, or a day before the action of the British and United States governments was made public.

Roosevelt and Churchill, however, in their joint statement issued Aug. 24 said "full reports of the decisions (at the Quebec conference) so far as they affect the war against Germany and Italy will be furnished to the Soviet government."

The United States and Great Britain accorded the committee limited wartime recognition as administrative agency in French overseas territories which recognize the committee.

GASOLINE INCREASE UNLIKELY ANYWHERE

Military Operations To Take More of Supplies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Hopes of the nation's motorists for more gasoline especially in the east, were dealt a double blow today.

Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies declared the military drain on the supply produced east of the Rocky Mountains was increasing steadily, and offered this deduction:

"As military requirements increase, it is inevitable that there be less gasoline available for civilian consumption. It seems patent to the petroleum administration that the only means whereby those needs can be met in full is to reduce correspondingly the demand on our gasoline stocks at home."

His statement came after the Petroleum Administration for War (PAW) reported that the midwest, southwest and east are overdrawing their daily civilian allotment.

MOST DIFFICULT MILITARY OPERATION generally is regarded to be an amphibious assault. If you want to know how American fighting men look when they reach the crucial stage of such an attack, study the photo above. It was taken as the first wave of U. New Allied Commander in Southeast Asia Here While Jungle War Stepped Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The eastern end of a British-American-Chinese squeeze play against Japan—product of the Quebec war strategy conference—is being outlined here at meetings between Lord Louis Mountbatten, new Allied supreme commander in southeast Asia, and American military chiefs.

The itinerary of Britain's famed commando chief will take him through a round of staff conferences with Army and War Department officials today, and after a trip to London, eventually to Chungking to pilot the western phase of the war in Asia.

A four-fold objective appeared to dominate the developing pattern for the Allied effort in Asia: Reopen the Burma Road, unshackle southern Asiatic sea ports from enemy control, and, ultimately, dominate the China Sea and greatly augment Allied air power in China itself.

With the whole program obviously amphibious operations, Mountbatten conferred yesterday with navy officials. Secretary of the Navy Knox remarked that the choice of Lord Louis was an indication of "growing attention and interest" to the southeastern Asia theatre and "to future operations there."

It became known that an as yet unidentified officer already has been chosen by the commando leader as his deputy chief of staff and that the chief of staff will be British.

Mountbatten probably will leave Washington tonight or tomorrow, and it is thought likely that while in London the British government will promote him from vice admiral to full admiral.

JAP BASES BLASTED

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, August 27.—(AP)—Allied heavy and medium bombers, flying in greater force than ever before in the southwest Pacific, crashed 180 tons of bombs on Salamaua's supply base at Hansa Bay, New Guinea, Wednesday, Allied headquarters announced today.

Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney's Fifth Airforce sent nearly 100 Liberators, Flying Fortresses and Mitchells, escorted by fighters in.

13 AIR-SEA BATTLES SINK 10 NAZI SUBS

Specially Equipped B-24 Bombers Turn Trick

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—At least 10 German U-boats were sunk or damaged recently in 13 air-sea battles between U. S. Army Air Forces B-24 bombers patrolling far out into the ocean, the AAF's anti-submarine command announced today.

The Anti-Submarine Command said five submarines were believed to have been sunk and five damaged, and three were forced under water and thereby prevented from attacking nearby Allied shipping.

None of these battles has been reported previously, the Anti-Submarine Command said.

B-24's specially equipped for anti-submarine warfare flew as far as 1,000 miles from their home bases to battle the submarines, the command said, and all returned safely, although five of them were subjected to severe anti-aircraft fire from the U-boats.

Revolts In Denmark Headache To Hitler

By JOHN H. COLBURN
STOCKHOLM, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Denmark's "people's revolt" against German occupation soared to new heights today as the Danish government and Nazi authorities reached a stalemate in their discussion on how to halt the riots and sabotage.

One hundred and twenty persons were reported arrested by Danish police yesterday as they broke up, with the aid of German soldiers, a riot in the Raadhustadsen in the center of Copenhagen.

An undetermined number of persons were reported injured. It was the second successive day that large crowds demonstrated in the Raadhustadsen, while sabotage, general strikes and clashes between Danes and German soldiers continued throughout Denmark.

Meanwhile, residents of Helsingborg in Sweden reported

CLEVELAND'S DOORS CLOSED TO WORKERS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Cleveland will close its doors to immigrant workers for 60 days, starting Aug. 31, the war manpower commission's local labor-management committee decided today.

Dr. William P. Edmunds, WMC director here, said the committee would take inventory at the end of the 60 days to determine whether the ban should be removed or continued.

The WMC committee viewed the ban as necessary to relieve congested housing conditions and lighten other burdens imposed by the heavy influx of men and women from other labor market areas.

19 NAZI PRISONERS ESCAPE IN CANADA

Nine, However, Are Caught Within 12 Hours

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Nineteen German prisoners escaped from the Fort Henry prison camp last night, but nine had been recaptured by 9 A. M. today and the remainder were hunted widely.

Four were found last night and five more were captured this morning, all in Kingston or nearby.

A routine check was being made of the prisoners when a report came through from police that a man believed to be an escaped prisoner had been apprehended at Dead Man's Bay, a mile and one-half from the camp.

ITALIANS CROWD INTO ROME WHEN DECLARED OPEN CITY; BADOGLIO'S WORRIES GROW

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
MADRID, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A new worry has been added to Italian Premier Pietro Badoglio's cares in recent days, for despite all efforts of police and military authorities thousands upon thousands of provincial Italians are moving into Rome.

Air travelers from Italy arriving in Madrid today estimated that Rome now contains at least 500,000 more Italians than it did before the Allies landed in Sicily, and said the number is daily increasing.

Parks, public squares and plazas are filled nightly with people unable to obtain lodgings and sleeping in the open, the travelers reported.

So far this civilian "march on Rome" from the provinces has been peaceful. It probably was inspired in part by the hope of many Italians that the capital may escape being bombed in the future if the Allies recognize it as an open city.

Travelers reported, however, that many of those who came to Rome from the provinces had other ideas than merely seeking shelter from Allied bombs. Some, they asserted, came for political purposes and they comprise the element that Badoglio most fears.

It was recalled that when demonstrations for peace and anti-German riots got under way in northern Italian cities, the police and military authorities tossed into jail a number of anti-Fascist political prisoners released after Mussolini's downfall.

Then a number of these former prisoners of Fascism and enemies of Germany packed their bags and went to Rome. This influx began weeks before Italy's unilateral declaration that Rome was an open city.

When Badoglio made his bid to save Rome from Allied raids, thousands more provincial Italians, with the sole idea of getting out of areas subject to bombing headed for Rome to visit Roman relatives—existent or non-existent.

Jungle Drums Throb Good News Of Rescue Of 18 American Fliers

By FRANK L. MARTIN
A JUNGLE VILLAGE IN INDIA, Aug. 22.—(Delayed)—(P)—Throbbing native drums broadcast through monsoon-drenched jungles today that 18 American survivors of the crash of a U. S. transport plane were making the long journey back to civilization.

(Word reached the United States last night that the party had arrived at a town in India.) Moving slowly towards this outpost in single file procession were Eric Sevareid, Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent; John Davies, Jr., second secretary of the American Embassy in Chungking; William L. Stanton of the U. S. Office of Economic Warfare; 15 American army officers and enlisted men. With them are three Air Transport Command army men who parachuted to the party with medical supplies and one American member of a ground rescue party.

BEE-LINE DRIVE FOR KIEV SEEN AS SOVIET PLAN

Flanking Move Launched To Put Squeeze on Germans On Southern Front

COUNTER ATTACKS FAILING

Southern Italy Is Bombed Again and Yanks Blast Targets in France

By ROGER GREENE
By The Associated Press

Russia's armies struck deeper into the heart of the Ukraine toward battle lines of 1941 today, while in western Europe dispatches told of mounting revolt in Nazi-occupied Denmark and a civilian "march on Rome" in beleaguered Italy.

Russian troops of the Kharkov region have backed German forces three and one-half miles further westward toward the Ukraine toward the Nazis' Dnieper River defenses and also have struck due south in a new flanking maneuver, it was announced today.

The southward column of Gen. Ivan S. Konev's steppe army, pounding toward the key rail junction of Lozovaya, killed some 600 of the enemy, the Soviet communiqué said. Fighting was reported heavy.

Thus, the steppe army was moving into position to put ever-increasing pressure against the flanks of the German lines reaching eastward into the Donets river basin.

In the Donets basin itself, the Moscow war bulletin said, the southwest army group commanded by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky absorbed frequent Axis counterattacks south of Izyum and southwest of Voroshilovgrad, killing 2,000 of the enemy.

Yesterday's advances by Gen. Konev's troops west of Kharkov wiped out 800 enemy rearguards, routed two battalions and captured several villages.

The communiqué gave no information as to how far the Russians had penetrated the Ukraine west of Kharkov. One big goal is Poltava, 75 miles to the southwest on the railroad leading to the Dnieper, which is another 75 miles beyond.

Poltava already has been bypassed to the north by one Soviet column which captured Zenkov Wednesday on a bee-line drive toward Kiev, Ukraine capital still 170 miles distant.

The Russians announced last night that Gen. Konev, whose troops captured Kharkov Monday, was raised from colonel general to a full general. Likewise, Markian M. Popov, whose troops seized Orel and are now advancing on Bryansk, was elevated to that rank.

German troops have struck at the flanks of Russian forces advancing through the Ukraine in an unsuccessful effort to check the Red army's progress west of Kharkov, it was announced today.

A front line dispatch to the army newspaper Red Star said the enemy concentrated infantry and tanks along the sides of salients which the Russians had driven into their lines and launched a number of stiff counterattacks.

The Red army repulsed the attacks, the dispatch said, and continued the reckless advance which yesterday covered another three and a half miles.

(A German communiqué, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said Russian troops supported by tanks and planes attacked south and west of Kharkov yesterday but were repulsed with the loss of more than 100 tanks.)

Dispatches from Stockholm said Denmark's "people's revolt" against German occupation authorities reached new heights of bitterness in the wake of a riot in the Raadhustadsen in the center of Copenhagen yesterday.

German soldiers and Danish police broke up the demonstration—the second in 24 hours—

FIRST MEETING OF LEGION POST IN NEW HOME

Plans for Future Discussed, Nominations Made and Amendments Approved

Completing the remodeling and re-decoration of the Legion home and contacting state officers to be present at the formal opening of the headquarters are all that delay announcement of the date of the opening, R. B. Tharp, adjutant of the Paul H. Hughes Post No. 25 of the American Legion here, announced today after the meeting held Thursday night, the first in the new home.

"We want everything to be in place, all the furniture and all the decorating to be done, before we open the new home," Tharp said, adding that contacting of the state officers might be handicapped because of the national convention of the Legion to be held in Omaha, Neb., September 20, 21 and 22. Tharp indicated that he hoped to attend the convention.

A letter from Lt. Ted V. Ottinger, former manager of the Murphy Store here, was read at the meeting by Herbert E. Wilson, post commander. Lt. Ottinger has been stationed in China for the past year. In his letter, he said that he had received a newspaper clipping telling of the purchase of the Legion home and he sent his congratulations. He enclosed a 100 yen note in his letter for a "down payment" on his membership fee for the Legion. "They aren't good for much besides papering the wall here," he quipped. Lt. Ottinger will not be eligible for membership in the Legion until he has received an honorable discharge from the army, however. But the commander wrote him that "the doors will be open when you come back."

The nominating committee read the list of 20 candidates for the executive committee to be elected September 7. The names of the candidates will be released as soon as a letter has been sent to each of the 192 members notifying them of the nominees, Tharp said.

High school dances, held every year until the first of May, will begin September 17, after the first football game, Tharp said. He indicated that the music would be similar to that provided last year.

"If it works out, we'll have a canteen to serve soft drinks, ice cream, malted milks, candy bars and snacks this year," he said. This canteen will solve the intermission problem, he added, explaining that many of those attending the dances had to go out to get something to eat at intermission time before. "We won't have soda fountain facilities—all our soft drinks will be bottled. But if we can work out an arrangement with the ration board, we may serve sandwiches," he said.

Amendments allowing the post to hold real estate and authorizing a maintenance committee were passed at the meeting, Tharp added. The 35 members attending the meeting were "pleased" with the progress made in re-decorating the new headquarters, he said.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR O. W. ERVIN

Funeral services for O. W. Ervin were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at his home near Bookwalter. The ceremonies were in charge of Rev. E. R. Rector of the Jeffersonville Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. W. S. Alexander, retired Congregational Christian minister.

Mrs. Lynn Straley prepared and read a memoir and Mr. and Mrs. Max Morrow sang "Abide With Me," and "No Night There." The flowers were in charge of Mrs. O. L. Wiseman, Mrs. E. R. Rector, Mrs. W. S. Alexander, Mrs. Justin Owens and Mrs. Forrest Ervin. The funeral was directed by Morrow's Funeral Home, assisted by Robert Hook.

Pallbearers were Dr. William Lukens, Hillsboro; Leonard Ervin, Akron; Ellsworth Vannorsdall, Sam McChesney, South Charleston; Howard Reid, Jr., Chester Shepherd, Frank Dill and Robert Seibert who is stationed at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

Burial was made in Jeffersonville Fairview Cemetery after the largely attended service.

WILLIS IS FIRST TO ENTER RACE FOR COUNCILMAN

Complicated Scramble for Three Seats Foreseen By Observers

Richard R. Willis was the first to toss his hat into the ring for what is likely to turn out to be a lively scramble for the three seats at the city council table this fall.

Willis, a native of Washington C. H., filed his petition Friday morning. He said he did not count the number of signatures but added "there were about three times as many as are required." The secretary of the board of elections was not immediately available for a check.

Willis said he was not backed by "any individual or group," that he was under obligation to no one and that his primary motive was to "at least offer to do my part as a citizen."

The sponsors listed on his petition were Mrs. Gilbert Adams, Andy Gidding, Lang Conard, Elmer Junk and Homer Bireley—"just the first five persons I met when I had my petition," he said.

Willis pointed out that he had never held any public office and that the only time he even came close to it was when he offered to become a candidate when a "reform movement" was started simultaneously with ouster proceedings against some city solons as the result of a reshuffle of council through resignations and appointments about two years ago.

Willis served 18 months overseas during the first World War and while the American Legion does not take any part in politics one section of his petition looked like a partial roster of the post here.

He has been in the insurance business here for the past 12 years as well as operating a dairy farm at the northern edge of the city. He said he would have little time for politics but would like the opportunity of "doing what I can" to put sound business practices into city government.

Competent political observers—those who keep their fingers constantly on the political pulse to see what makes it beat on the inside—are predicting that at least seven and possibly nine candidates will be in the field by the time the filing deadline is reached September 3. As yet yet the battle lines are obscure to most observers although they admittedly are watching for "straws in the wind" to give some indication of the line-ups. Inasmuch as councilmen run without party status, the campaigns frequently become complicated. Willis' only comment was: "I don't know who else is going to run and I don't know of any political complications that might develop."

The terms of S. A. Murry, James A. Ducey and A. W. Duff expire this year.

TOMATOES AND CORN TO BE CANNED SOON

Marion School Committee Puts Up Apples, Beans

Ten bushels of tomatoes will be canned at Marion School next Wednesday by the school canning committee there, Mrs. Loren Reif, chairman of the committee, announced today. Corn will be canned at the school the following day, she added.

Members of the canning committee and others who desire to help are requested by Mrs. Reif to bring their own equipment and table service for a potluck dinner to be held at noon.

The canning committee met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Wayne McArthur and canned four bushels of apples. This was the first time the committee had worked as a unit. Mrs. Reif has distributed cans to women in the community who volunteered to can a few quarts of vegetables and fruits for the school at the same time they did their home canning. A quantity of beans have also been canned.

Anyone wishing to help with the canning or desiring to donate food to be canned may contact Mrs. Reif, who will see that the food is taken care of and also notify prospective helpers when the canning sessions will be held.

Members of the Marion canning committee are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Downs, Mrs. Preston Dray, Mrs. Artie Thompson, Mrs. Seymour Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry West, Mrs. Marcus Prosch and Mrs. Wayne McArthur. Mrs. Joe Henry has also been helping with the canning. Downs and West are officers of the P.-T.A. and are automatically members of the canning committee.

following limitations were imposed:

1. The committee is expected to "function on the principle of collective responsibility of all its members for the active prosecution of the war."

2. "In view of the paramount importance of the common war effort" the relationship with the committee "must continue to be subject to the military requirements of the Allied commanders."

3. The extent to which the committee may be recognized "as the body qualified to ensure the administration and defense of French interests" must be "reserved for consideration in each case as it arises."

4. The statement "does not constitute recognition of a government of France or of the French empire by the government of the United States."

An informed diplomat interpreted these limitations as meaning that the British-American governments merely had confirmed the situation existing in North Africa for the past three months.

Cook for Cafeteria Is Not Employed Yet

The position of cafeteria cook is the only position in the New Holland schools vacant today, it was announced by Guy Brown, clerk of the board of education there.

James Wolfe, of Athens, was employed as eighth grade teacher and Everett Rockwell as grade school janitor at an emergency meeting of the board Thursday at 8 P. M. in the high school building. Four members of the board were present.

Bus drivers for the 1943-44 school year at New Holland will be Everett Rockwell, Albert Lewis, and Nolan Eckle. The buses have their gasoline coupons until October, Brown said.

to the attack from low altitude and succeeded in sinking a freighter, wrecking 45 barges, exploding ammunition dumps and destroying ground installations.

While American and Australian ground forces, almost at the edge of Salamaua's Airdrome, tightened their pressure on the Japanese, the same bristling bomber formations which devastated Wewak in consecutive raids last week turned their attention to the Hansa Bay area.

At the other arm of the Pacific offensive in the Solomons, the Japanese still clinging to a foothold on New Georgia Island at Bairoko Harbor above the captured Munda Airfield began to wilt under continued pounding of artillery and slowly advancing infantrymen. Most of the shoreline there now is in American hands.

Forty-five miles above Munda on Vella Lavella Island, the Japanese attempted six raids Thursday against United States troop positions. They lost 11 planes to American fighters and one to anti-aircraft gunners.

Across the Kula Gulf from Bairoko, the Japanese air base of Vila on Kolombangara was blasted yesterday by 34 tons of bombs in a raid by Americans.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Sweden May Get Tougher With Germany as Result of Sinking of Two Small Boats

Something red hot—something to watch closely for developments—is the announcement by the government of Sweden that two German mine-sweepers sank two Swedish fishing boats without warning off Denmark on August 25.

An angry Stockholm immediately started an investigation. Should that inquiry establish that the Huns have again perpetrated one of their cold-blooded acts of ruthlessness, it might be the explosive event which would bring Sweden into the war on the side of the Allies.

That's not a prediction. I'm merely pointing to a tendency which has been pulling a reluctant Sweden nearer and nearer to the brink of the European maelstrom recently. This is one of those "can-be-if" situations. One wonders in particular what the effect would be on Stockholm if the Western Allies should stage an invasion of Western Europe in the immediate future. It certainly would put the Swedes in a much stronger position.

Relations between the Scandinavian country and her gangster neighbor have been increasingly strained for four months. For the past three months the Swedes have been standing at arms, ready for action if forced from their chosen position of neutrality.

Now comes this fresh sensation in which the German warships are said to have fired from a range of fifty yards on the little boats. The fishing craft were flying their country's flag, and had the Swedish blue and gold insignia painted trustfully on their sides. Stockholm regards this as the worst in a series of incidents involving Germany since the sinking of the Swedish submarine Ulven on April 16, with her crew of thirty-four.

The fact that the Nazis have been jittery in the expectation of an Allied invasion of Denmark scarcely could save Swedish honor or indignation. That's an excuse something like the one the Boche gave after sending the Ulven to the bottom. The Hitlerites said they mistook the Ulven for an enemy craft—but they didn't make the tale stick in Stockholm.

It was last March 24 that Sir Alfred Knox, member of the British Parliament, told the House of Commons that Sweden's attitude since the beginning of the war had been "definitely pro-Axis." Whether that represented the position exactly is something for history to decide. Perhaps it might be more accurate to say that some of Sweden's actions had been pro-Axis, thereby making way for a delicate differentiation. We should remember that Sweden was right under Hitler's big guns, and in constant danger of invasion by the Boche. Sweden's position was mighty difficult.

Anyway, the Allied governments quietly but clearly made it known that those who are not for us are against us. This didn't improve Sweden's uncomfortable position, but it did produce signs that Stockholm was giving it thoughtful consideration.

A little later there began a long series of incidents for which the Nazis were responsible, and there has been a distinct cooling of Swedish-German relations. Stockholm's attitude has stiffened as the Axis has sunk into the slough of defeat, and as the prospects of an Allied invasion of Western Europe have grown.

Swedish protests to Berlin increased, and by the end of April the Swedes were talking tough to the Nazis. At this time it was made known that Sweden's armed forces were ready for eventualities.

Prepare now to attend the entire series. Each sermon will be delivered in two churches on succeeding Sundays in order that all who may wish can hear them.

First: "The habit of going to church every Sunday morning as an act of worship to God."

Second: "What we mean by going to church every Sunday morning as an act of worship to God."

Third: "Is the average Sunday morning congregation a fair measure of people's interest in the church?"

Fourth: "Some hindrances to the habit of going to church every Sunday morning as an act of worship to God."

Fifth: "How can we get our people established in the habit of going to church every Sunday morning as an act of worship to God?"

We Stand Squarely for the Best Interest of the Citizens of Washington C. H. and Fayette County.

LOOKING BEYOND THE WAR

Any observer in Washington C. H. or in any part of Fayette County who, without prejudice, seeks to get honest reactions from the people he meets and talks with regarding what is likely to happen and what should be done in the immediate years ahead, is almost certain to become confused in his judgment as to what the public is really thinking.

What is true here in Fayette County in this regard doubtless is true almost everywhere over the whole nation where conflicting viewpoints will be learned depending upon the occupation or home environment of the person interviewed. Undoubtedly many people are doing some very serious thinking about what is ahead. Many others seem completely wrapped up in their purely local viewpoint and give little thought to the overall picture of our national situation.

Life in post-war America is not likely to be entirely a rosy Sunday supplement miracle of soy bean plastics, helicopter taxis, tear-drop automobiles and lunch-in-London, dinner-in-Paris air travel. It will also face the urgent necessity of doing something about the dwindling oil and iron resources of "the richest nation on earth," and other problems requiring national forethought and thrift.

There is no immediate cause for alarm, unless the war drags on beyond the most pessimistic present expectations. But some officials of government and many men identified with industry are remembering the lessons learned the hard way after Pearl Harbor. And they are not waiting for peace to tackle the problem of reserves in years to come.

A senate bill is now pending which would authorize the government to build and operate pilot plants for the production of synthetic crude oil from coal, until such time as private industry could take over. Probably there will be no pilot plants in the near future, for they take a lot of war-necessary money and steel. But a senate subcommittee has been holding hearings on the subject, and has already inspected synthetic production in a plant of laboratory proportions.

While this start is being made, the steel and mining industry is rushing to lease low-grade ore deposits in Minnesota, at the same time searching for any new sources of high-grade ore. The low-grade fields have been known for years, and passed over because of the added expense involved in the use of this ore. But now, when reserves are of such immediate importance, they are the object of some furious bidding.

Of these two scarcity problems, that of oil seems to be the most serious. But it holds the most promising solution. It has been estimated that our present petroleum supply might run out in 20 years, if no reserves were discovered and we continued our present rate of consumption. Our coal supply, on the basis of computation, is good for 3,000 years.

We have known about the oil-from-coal process since its discovery in 1914. So has Germany. But while the United States, secure in her natural abundance, did nothing about it, Germany had a

Hints on Etiquette

In times like these when it is almost impossible to replace household equipment, be particularly careful of furniture, etc., when you are visiting a friend. Do not set a sweating glass on a table, for instance. It may leave a ring which cannot be eliminated.

Today's Horoscope

Diligence in effort, the power of close concentration, strong intuition and deep sympathies are given the person who has a birthday today. You are generous and forgiving. You are clever, entertaining and should have a very happy married life. Around 2:30 P. M., be careful about what you say. Your most innocent remarks may be used against you. Later follow a hunch if it is connected with literature, education, art or music. Do something tangible to make your work easier. Straighten out papers, order new magazines, write letters and visit your friends. If you attend a dinner party you probably will have a good time. Take part in games of skill or in contests.

One-Minute Test Answers

perfected commercial process operating 12 years later. About half the gasoline now used by the Nazi war machine comes from coal, it is believed.

This country also has oil shale fields in the west estimated to contain enough oil to take care of our domestic needs for 50 years. But the extent of this deposit's development has been one mine and re-torting plant which the Bureau of Mines ran in Colorado for three years until in 1929 it ran short of funds.

It is time we went to work in earnest on both these scarcity problems. Unexploited territories, particularly in a more accessible Alaska after the war, might produce vast new sources of oil and iron. But that is no reason for not carrying insurance against a repetition of the costly and almost disastrous short-sightedness in the matter of rubber.

WAR OVEROPTIMISM

It is significant that the closer you get to the top of our military command, the nearer you get to the battlefield, the less you hear about an early end of the war. You will find the greatest optimism on an American Main Street. But it grows less and less as you go through the ranks of soldiers and sailors to the general officers in this country, then to the civilians and soldiers of Great Britain, finally to the men who are doing the actual fighting.

So when Elmer Davis told a press conference that "nobody knows" when the war will end, it can be taken as a carefully considered statement. For the Office of War Information director is a thoughtful and level-headed man, and he is furthermore in a position to know the opinions of most of the best minds in the undoubted wisdom of this statement by Mr. Davis:

"Until the mass of the German army is defeated, the war will not be over."

Diet and Health

Pattern Followed in Human Growth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

GROWTH, as we pointed out yesterday, is one of the most mysterious functions of the body. Obviously it is a necessary function. We cannot forever remain the size of babies, even if we maintain our youth.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ture in other ways, because the baby would have to reproduce a smaller baby and so on until in a few generations we would be microscopic. So Nature provides for growth up to the age of maturity. But why isn't the growth steady and gradual?

The human animal grows very rapidly from birth to six months—increases size twice. Then it grows steadily but slowly for two years, so again its size is twice that of six months. Then its growth slows so as to be almost imperceptible—only a ten or fifteen per cent increase in eight or nine years.

The child of ten is about four times the size of the new born baby. Then all of a sudden at about the age of twelve growth is speeded up so that in the next five or six years the size of the individual is ten times that at birth. And then the whole darn thing stops dead and never starts again. Why? Nobody on earth has the faintest idea.

Averages of Height

If you want averages of growth in height, they can be furnished. But if, as a parent, you are going to apply this to the growth of your own children a warning is necessary. These are only averages, and an average is made by computing ten thousand individuals. Your child is as likely to fall right on the dot as one is to ten thousand.

But here are the figures. Males and females are about the same up to thirteen years. It is more accurate to do it in millimeters. (A millimeter is one-thousandth of a meter, which is 39 1/4 inches long.)

At 3 months—613
1 year—761
2 years—874
3 years—962
4 years—1039 (a little over a yard)
5 years—1109
6 years—1172
7 years—1238
8 years—1301
9 years—1359
10 years—1413
11 years—1465
12 years—1510
13 years—1567 (a little over a yard and a half)

Several General Deviations

But in recording a large number, of which this is the average, there are found deviations from the average which fall into four groups. There is first a group whose weight is heavier than the average and height about the average or somewhat below. Then there is a taller group—always exceeding the average height, constituting about 33 per cent of the whole. This individual is slender and his weight not much more than the average.

Then there is the small type, consistently at every age under the average height, constituting about 27 per cent of the entire group. The actual average constitutes about 37 per cent of the boys and 42 per cent of the girls. These differences mean quite different potential activities for the different groups in endurance, tendency to disease and even temperament, a subject we will discuss tomorrow.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. M. P.: If a person has osteomyelitis in her youth would it be likely to recur later on in life? Would her offspring be likely to be affected by it?

Answer: If the osteomyelitis has been thoroughly eradicated in youth, it will not recur. There is absolutely no positive danger of giving it to the offspring.

ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRIME ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

KAREN DID not like to think about what Paul had told her—that someone in the immediate vicinity was sending messages to enemy submarines and causing the heavy toll of ships—but she had meant it when she had said that she hoped whoever it was would be caught. Yes, even if it was someone who was not "ink about that, either. She would, as she also had told Paul in the quarrel they had had over Marty, believe in her friend until it no longer was possible to do so.

She allowed Buffy to have the long-promised fishing trip that had caused so much trouble and anxiety when the little boy had run away. She even allowed him to spend the night with Marty in his trailer. She knew Paul did not approve of this, but Karen not only meant to live up to her promise; she kept it in order to show her faith in Martin Haldiday.

Buffy came home, after this big adventure, so radiant and so full of the wonderful time he had had that Karen was glad she had "stuck to her guns," much as she disliked having to go against Paul's expressed wishes. She knew now that Buffy would never feel toward Paul as he did toward Marty, to whom he gave a sort of hero worship. Surely a man who could so inspire a small boy must be deserving of that admiration. For days after his visit to the trailer camp Buffy would talk of nothing else and of no one except Marty. He said he wished he could go to live with Marty in his little house-on-wheels.

"And leave me and your grandfather!" Karen pretended to be even more hurt than she was. It did hurt a little, to think that Marty came before the boy's own relatives.

"Oh, I should come to visit you," Buffy explained, "unless you would come and live in the trailer-house, too. Karen, I told Marty I wished we could do that—you and I—and he said he wished we could, too, so you see it would be all right."

"I see," Karen felt herself blushing, foolish as that was. She wondered what else Buffy had said about her during that visit with Marty. Maybe it was time to put her small nephew straight in regard to certain matters. Long ago she had decided to tell Buffy that she was going to marry Paul, but she had put it off. Since her wedding had been put off, too, with nothing settled even now that it was spring, maybe she need not tell him yet.

"Would you really do it, Karen?" Buffy's revealing face lighted up with that inner radiance, his big eyes adding their appeal.

"Well, not right away . . . not ever, I'm afraid—at least, not for keeps." Karen had to hedge a bit, not wanting to put out that light too quickly. "We might visit Marty some time together, you and I—and I told him he must come over very soon to see us."

"That would not be as satisfactory as staying all the time," Buffy said. "It is fun, living in the little house-on-wheels; I know you would like it, Karen. Besides, what will we do when Marty goes away?"

"Did he say he was going away?" Karen felt her heart give a peculiar twist.

The little boy nodded; the light had gone out of his face. "He said that he would have to go some time and that it might be very soon now. He said that this was because his work, he hoped, would very soon be finished."

Karen knew from the way Buffy said it that the child was repeating what Marty had said, as nearly as he could remember, word for word. What that would mean? It was a direct contradiction to what Marty had told her; he had said he did not have any work, that he was here only to regain his health. But she must not put too much stress on anything a child might repeat. It might be very soon, Buffy had repeated, too, which might mean that any time now, any day, Marty and his trailer might pull up stakes and go out of their lives forever.

Why should this thought, make her heart contract even more painfully? She had enjoyed knowing Marty. He had been so different from any one she ever had known, but he was, after all, only a friend.

Only a friend . . . remembering that first kiss, when the moon had been to blame . . . only a friend, remembering that moment in the tower when they had been so close, spiritually as well as physically. Memories that she could not put aside, that kept haunting her, returning to bring anew that ecstasy.

"Any one would think you were in love with the fellow!" Paul had claimed the night they had quarreled over Marty.

But of course she could not be. As Paul also had said, she had not known Marty long enough and she still was engaged to her long-time friend. But what if time had nothing whatever to do with love, or being sensible about love, as she always had tried to be; what if she no longer was engaged to marry Paul, since spring now was here and there were no plans for the wedding?

There was no use, however, Karen told herself, during days of wondering such things, in wondering. That sounded like a paradox, incredible yet true, which was what all of it—everything—seemed to be. The whole world: Paul and Eva; Marty himself. So there was no use in wondering. The only thing to do was to mark time and see what Fate had in store for all of them, that wily temptress who had caused so many things to happen, but who apparently had left them to themselves now.

In this, of course, Karen was mistaken. She did not know that it was Fate that led her down to the beach one evening to seek the solitude it offered and to listen to the roar of the ocean, hoping also to untangle some of her thoughts. If it had not been Fate, she surely would not have chosen this particular evening, this particular night, when those millions of tiny brilliant stars were hidden and the sea was high and the beach dark and deserted.

Karen had visited it so often, although not during the past few months, that she knew her way even on such a night as this. She had not even brought the flashlight that she often carried, as most people did, now that the town was blacked out after sundown. She went past the beach house to find a log that was nearer the edge of the water. She would sit there a little while, alone with her thoughts. It never occurred to her to be afraid or the least bit nervous. This was familiar ground, private strip of beach that she had known and loved so many years, all of her lifetime.

She did not know how long she sat there, half an hour, maybe a bit longer, or why she suddenly decided she had been there long enough. She had gotten what she had come for, the old serenity that came from gazing upon that vast body of water, the enormous canopy of sky overhead. She felt refreshed, renewed in spirit, as she always did afterward.

She walked slowly, head bent, back across the sand, not heading toward the path that led up the high bank, but toward the tunnel. She would see if it was locked, as Marty had advised; see if Jan had obeyed orders. If it weren't, she might go back that way, since it was shorter and because she had no fear in regard to that underground passage, either.

The deep sand swallowed any sound of her footsteps and the night was so dark that a whisper was only another shadow. So was that dark object near the doorway—a clump of cactus, maybe, or a big boulder. "Stop where you are!" The shadow straightened up into the bulky outline of a man, a man leveling a revolver straight at Karen.

Fear closed her throat now so that she could not even cry out; then the man took a step forward—as recognition came from each of them—such sharp relief that Karen felt her head whirl giddily. "Marty!" she gasped. But what was he doing with that revolver? What was he doing lurking at the entrance of the tunnel?

"So it's you!" he said. There was relief in his lowered voice, which he kept almost at a whisper. What are you doing here? Tell me."

Marty demanding to know what SHE was doing, what right she had on her own private beach, when she was the one who should be doing the questioning?

FIRESTONE PLANT CLOSED BY MATERIAL SHORTAGE

AKRON, Aug. 27.—(P)—Several departments of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. will suspend production for three days, starting tomorrow, because of a shortage in materials, the company announced.

Employees in these departments will "receive a much-needed rest and a week's vacation pay," the company said, adding that the suspension would have "little appreciable effect on production as it expected to make available a more adequate supply of materials."

LIMIT OF FISH CAUGHT IN WYOMING BY BRICKER

Sundance, Wyo., Aug. 26.—(P)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, here to vacation and confer with other political leaders, caught the legal limit of 10 trout yesterday, using a wet fly in well-stocked San Creek. Bricker and his wife are visiting the ranch of former Wyoming Gov. Nels H. Smith.

WASHINGTON—Post-War planning is so full of trial balloons, it could well explode in our faces any minute now.

For the most part, industrial plans are going to be long delayed by the change-over from wartime to peacetime tooling. The automobile industry, for example, already has served notice that the tear-drop models are well in the future and that manufacturers will pick up just about where they left off. If you are flummoxed, you will be traveling a long time in the air in remodeled Army and Navy transport planes before you'll get a glimpse of the interior of tomorrow's stratosphere.

There is one industry, however, that is ready and waiting for the peace. It's home building.

Almost all industrial surveys agree that when war ends, a wave of home-buying and building will start sweeping the land.

These industrial engineers estimate that the post-war demands for new homes will amount to something like 1,500,000 a year—more than twice the 650,000-a-year prewar requirements—and that this demand will last for at least ten years.

Here is one industry that needs no elaborate planning. The tools of the trade already are available: hammers, saws, trowels, shovels, pliers, screwdrivers, wrenches and pipe-benders are all over the place and good for most of those ten years.

Bricks, stone mortar, and plaster can be had in almost any community at a moment's notice. In spite of certain troubles that the forest industries have had in meeting wartime demands (due to shortages of wartime labor, transportation and other things), they estimate that there are at least one trillion, 500 billion board feet of saw-timber size in our forests waiting to be used. That doesn't include timber earmarked for use as fence posts, railroad ties, pulp, shingles, fuel, etc.

Out of that forest backlog, the industry claims, we could build approximately three homes for every family in the nation.

That brings us down to the probability that post-war housing will provide the greatest single source of employment immediately after this war. I haven't been able to obtain exact estimates on the number to be employed, but when you think in terms of 1,500,000 homes a year, with all the nails, bolts, electrical supplies, bathroom fixtures, plumbing, hardware, new furnishings, and whatnot that will go into them, you can find little reason for prospects of unemployment. Some say that the whole of our armed forces could be used in constructing postwar homes.

As for the home of tomorrow, don't look for any freakish designs. Building industry leaders here say they will be strictly utilitarian, with all the modern conveniences, considerable prefabrication, one and two-car garages attached, possibly movable interior walls. The average house will be smaller, but it will be a private, resident-owned dwelling, detached from its neighbor.

Lovely Luncheon-Bridge Is Held at The Country Club

The fortnightly luncheon-bridge was held at the Washington Country Club, Thursday, at one o'clock, and five guests were included in the afternoon's pleasures.

Mrs. Hazel DeWitt, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Leo Fedigan, Mrs. Alice Renick and Mrs. Hugh Thompson. The quartet of charming hostesses received in the flower banked lounge where several large baskets of fall garden flowers were placed about the spacious and cool room.

For the serving of the luncheon by Mrs. Hazel Devins, club hostess, the guests were seated at one long table and two smaller and low bowls of zinnias centered the tables.

Following the most delightful luncheon hour, the remainder of the afternoon was whiled away in playing bridge. Seven tables were placed in the lounge for the game and Mrs. E. C. Bourquin, Mrs. Loren Hynes and Mrs. Romanine Metchner won the prizes for the afternoon.

Guests included for the afternoon were Mrs. E. C. Bourquin, of Columbus, Mrs. Ethel Yanfen, of Del Ray Beach, Fla., Mrs. Fannie Ballard, of Columbus, Mrs. Romanine Metchner of Kenton and Mrs. Bessie Ammerman Murfin, of Portsmouth.

Margaret L. Smith Wed Wednesday To Wayne Dowler

Miss Margaret L. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smith of Jeffersonville was united in marriage to Wayne A. Dowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael Dowler of Jeffersonville. The single ring ceremony, marked in its simplicity, was performed at the home of Rev. W. S. Alexander, Wednesday, August 25 at 4:30 o'clock, in the presence of the immediate families.

Miss Donna Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Worley Vanvey performed the duties of best man.

The attractive bride wore for her marriage a two-piece costume suit of soldier blue and her flowers were a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath.

The new Mrs. Dowler, a graduate of Jeffersonville High School and Wilmington College, taught Commercial and Latin for the past three years at the Williamsport, Ohio, High School and for the past year was Commercial instructor at the Jeffersonville High School. She will resume her duties at the opening of school.

Mr. Dowler, formerly a resident of the Sabina community, is now engaged in farming. After September 1 the young couple will be at home in their newly furnished home on the Mrs. S. C. Creamer farm near Jeffersonville.

Heartiest felicitations are being extended to the young couple by their many friends.

POET'S CORNER

"The Sister of a Marine"
I never expect to be princess,
Nor do I expect to be queen
But I'm satisfied to be called the sister,
Of a United States Marine.

A Marine stands for all that is honest,
All that's good, kind, brave, and true,
All that will help save the nation,
And lick all those Japs 'fore
we're through.

I'll never reign 'ore any kingdom,
Or appear in bright lights on the screen,
But I'll just remain the proud
sister,
Of a United States fighting Marine.

Some girls prefer men in tuxedos,
I prefer forest green,
For that is a symbol of bravery
And it's worn by the U. S. Marine.
For a man who will fight for his country,
And fight with his spirits clean,
Is ready to join the thousands,
That can say "I'm a fightin' Marine."

They're the ones that are going to bring,
"Od Glory" to the top,
Until the final victory's won,
Those leathernecks won't stop.

So if I'm not a duchess,
Or a debutante, like some I've seen,
I'll just sit at home and be thankful,
I'm the sister of a fightin' Marine.

ANN PATTON NOW IN FERRY COMMAND

Will Be Assigned First to Texas Training Field

Miss Ann Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Patton, Briar Ave., Friday, received a telegram from General Arnold, head of the U. S. Air Force Command, notifying her that she will receive orders at once to report for Ferry Command Training.

Miss Patton will be assigned for training at Avenger Field, at Sweetwater, Texas, where those student pilots who have met the necessary requirements are in training.

At the time of receiving this notification it was exactly one year since Miss Patton began flight instruction and only a few months later, she was awarded a student pilot license. Since that time, she has been accumulating solo flight hours to qualify for the U. S. Army Air Forces Flying active service in connection with Training Command.

Many of those who qualify in this Ferry Training Service for women pilots are being ordered to ferry bombers to air commands overseas and Miss Patton has been very enthusiastic in her desire to enter this service.

Her many friends in this community are congratulating her upon the rapid success she has achieved in her aviation ambitions. She expects to receive official orders to report within the next few days and plans to be at her special training destination on or before September 6.

$16,776 DUE COUNTY IN LICENSE REVENUE

Auto Tag Revenues Bring $2,850 to City

A total of $16,776 in automobile license tag revenues has been released to Fayette County as a whole, it was announced today by Highway Director H. G. Sours.

The money is allocated as follows: Bloomingburg, $225; Jeffersonville, $112; Milledgeville, $37; New Holland, $25; Washington C. H., $2,850; County, 47 percent, $10,951; totalling $16,776.

These funds will be sent to the county auditor's office for distribution to the proper sources. City Auditor Glenn Rodgers said today that the $2,850 allotted to Washington C. H. will be used for maintenance and repair of city streets.

Two-thirds of all the pepper-mint and spearmint oil produced in the United States comes from Indiana.

DOUBLE FUNERAL HELD FOR LUTTRELL FAMILY

A double funeral was held Thursday afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Paul Luttrell, Toledo, cousins of James Luttrell, Sabina.

Mrs. Luttrell was killed and her husband was fatally injured Sunday when the motor of the boat in which they were cruising on Lake Erie exploded. Luttrell died Tuesday night. Mrs. Luttrell's funeral had been set for Wednesday, but when her husband died Tuesday night, it was postponed until Thursday so that a double funeral might be held. They are survived by one daughter.

James Luttrell and Mrs. Anna Lee Orr, Washington C. H. attended the funerals.

Whenever you make soups, sauces, custards, or anything which requires slow cooking or simmering, use your porcelain enameled utensils. Conducting and retaining heat efficiently, enameled ware insures even cooking.

Personals

Mrs. M. G. Morris has returned from a two weeks visit with her daughter, Mrs. Bert Krantz in Raleigh, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cluxton of Martinsville and Mrs. L. E. Whinery of Sabina, were Thursday guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Limes and daughter.

Mrs. Frank Littler who has spent the past week at Lake White with friends from Chicago, Ill. and Waverly, returned to her home here, Thursday.

Miss Jane Confer of Xenia, has been visiting for a few days with Mrs. Earl C. Confer, Jr.

Misses Patti and Marian Osborn will spend the week end with friends in Columbus.

Mrs. Eugene Smith and Mrs. Dorothy Turnpseed were Thursday visitors in Columbus.

Miss Betty Peterson of Ohio State University, Columbus, will spend the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Peterson.

Miss Janice Thompson, of Dayton, will spend the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Thompson.

Misses Mary Kathryn Knapp, Georgiell Graves and Janet Graves left Thursday evening for Chicago, Ill., where they'll visit with Pvt. Donald S. Harper, who is stationed at Camp Grant, Ill.

To preserve the glistening finish of porcelain enameled utensils, use wooden spoons for beating and stirring foods. Metal instruments may mar enamel.

A porcelain enameled water bath canner is best for processing acid foods, home economists agree. If you don't have an enameled canner, use one of your large, deep drawn enameled stock pots.

Mildred McCoy Is Charming Hostess At Buffet Supper

Miss Mildred McCoy was a very charming hostess, Thursday evening, when she invited several close friends to her country home near Bloomingburg, for a most delightful get-together.

A most delicious buffet supper was served, on the screened-in porch, from a lace covered table which had as a centerpiece a most unique arrangement of gladioli, flanked by tall ivory tapers in crystal holders.

A most enjoyable supper hour progressed, after which the remainder of the evening was spent in informal visiting, several contests and group singing with Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning accompanying on the piano.

Late in the evening Mrs. Robert J. Epply, Jr. (Joan Fortney) whose marriage was recently announced, was very pleasantly surprised when her friends presented her with a very lovely wedding gift, for which she made most charming response.

Guests included in the evening's pleasures were Mrs. Robert J. Epply, Jr., Mrs. Donald Hawk, Misses Emma Jean Mossbarger, Mary Elizabeth Browning, Clara Bell Robinson, Marilyn McCoy, Dorothy McCoy and the hostess, Mildred McCoy.

SERMON SERIES TO BEGIN AT CHURCH HERE SEPT. 5

Beginning September 5, Rev. Edward J. Cain of the South Side Church of Christ, will offer a series of six sermons on the Church of the New Testament. The series will be sermons of instruction, Rev. Cain said, and will explain the organization of the New Testament Church and conditions and terms of admission.

This series of sermons is designed to build up to a revival which will begin October 25 and continue for three weeks.

Mrs. Homer Scott Is Hostess to Women's Missionary Society

The Women's Missionary Society of McNair Church met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Homer Scott for their regular business meeting.

Mrs. Clifford Foster, vice-president, conducted the business session and during the meeting, arrangements were made for foreign apportionments. Plans were also made for a joint meeting with the Presbyterian Missionary Society of Bloomingburg, for the next regular meeting. Mrs. John Glenn will be the hostess.

Mrs. Foster conducted the devotionals, after which a most entertaining program was enjoyed. Several papers were read by Mrs. Howard Dellinger, Mrs. Loren Reif and Mrs. John Glenn. Mrs. Glenn also read some war letters from Presbyterian missionaries overseas, which were highly interesting to the group.

Tempting refreshments were served by Mrs. Scott at the conclusion of the business, and she was assisted by Mrs. Howard Dellinger and Mrs. Dora Underwood.

Stars Of Baseball And Show World Put On Extravaganza To Sell Bonds

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—There were still 35,000 lumps in 35,000 throats around the village today—almost a dozen old men walked out on a ball field. These weren't just any 12 old gaffers, mind you. Nor was it just any old baseball clambake at the Polo Grounds yesterday. It was an $800,000,000 baseball show, put on by the Journal-American to sell war bonds. And the more-than-35,000 who showed up had Uncle Sam's cash registers really ringing for the war effort.

It was quite a party, too, what with Broadway and baseball, Hollywood and the Hall of Fame, and—especially—Babe and the "boys."

But Babe and the "boys" stole the show—stole it from the top "name" comedians, dance bands, movie actors and singers in show business who did their stuff during the four-hour fess. And they stole it, too, from the Giant-Yankee-Dodger all-stars who turned in a 5-2 win over the Army's New Cumberland (Pa.) team.

The Babe, naturally, was George Herman Ruth, the man with a bat, the Babe and Walter Johnson were two of the ancient dozen who had Pop Time turn the hourglass back to give today's fan a look at what probably was the greatest collection of baseball "ivory" ever put on display in one park. Seven of the dozen are in the Hall of Fame.

Ex-mayor Jimmy Walker introduced each of the diamond's diamonds. Around the infield were George Sisler, Eddie Collins and bow-legged Honus Wagner from the Hall of Fame and Frankie (the Fordham flash) Frisch, who'll probably get there one of these days. Tris Speaker was flanked in the outer pastures by Duffy Lewis of the Boston Red Sox's mighty Lewis-Speaker-Hooper outfield and Red Murray, who once saved a game for the New York Giants by catching a fly during a lightning storm. C. McGillicuddy, known to the trade as Connie Mack, the old arbitrator in person, "umpired," and Roger Bresnahan did the catching.

It didn't matter that in fielding some of the Babe's "practice shots" Murray fell down, Speaker was practically decapitated and Collins was all but carried into right field by a line drive. The folks had a look at 'em, and the Babe finally parked one. That was the icing on the cake.

—Spying— On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Mike Jacobs has been absorbing a few blasts for setting a $16.50 top for tickets at tonight's Hank Armstrong-Ray Robinson fight, but Mike can take it as long as he can take it. . . . But some of the more solvent beachcombers point out that customers all over the country are demanding rindside seats at any price and won't go for the cheap tickets. . . . Record stuff: George Case, with 42 thefts so far, is a good bet to win his fifth straight American League base stealing crown. Ty Cobb never won more than three in a row. . . . Rudy York has hit 15 homers in August and needs only four more to bust his one-month record.

Fantastic Baseball Season Has Dulled Major Leagues

By JUDSON BAILEY

By The Associated Press
The fantastic schedule drawn up by the major leagues this year has dropped into another of its dead spots.

lots of games remain before the season ends October 3, but except for full programs tomorrow and Sunday the menu for the next few days has less meat than a vegetable plate luncheon.

Over a three-day stretch in the American League next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, for instance, the total activity will be one game between the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox. National League games also are rationed, although not quite so stringently.

The let-up began yesterday when only two teams in the Senior Circuit and four in the American League saw action.

The Chicago Cubs edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 in the lone National League contest with Paul Derringer pitching six-hit ball. It took a two-run homer by Phil Cavarretta in the sixth inning and a triple by Harry Lowrey in the seventh, however, to beat the Buccaners.

Record Turnout In Prospect for Red-Card Series

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Although the point at issue is scarcely debatable, the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals are likely to play tonight before the biggest night crowd of the season.

Record Turnout In Prospect for Red-Card Series

The advance sale indicates the previous record of 16,000 will be topped by folks hoping against hope that the second-place Reds can somehow whittle down the Cards' 12 1-2-game lead in time to make the National league race interesting.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A strong demand for oats in the cash market, where prices were the highest in 23 years, imparted firmness to all grain futures today. Profit-taking appeared on the advance and most gains were confined to fractions, with nearly deliveries showing the largest upturn.

Firm Treatment For Axis Advocated By Women

NO SOFT HEARTS AMONG SEVEN QUERIED HERE

Re-education of Youth of Enemy Countries Also Is Recommended

Confronted with the question "how should the United Nations deal with our three major enemies after the war—harshly, firmly, or leniently?" seven women here agreed almost unanimously on firm treatment for Germany, Japan and Italy. Most of them are in favor of a re-education program for the youth of the nations as well.

Miss Helen Hutson, American history and government teacher in the high school here, said: "Re-education of the younger generations is very important." She added that the Axis nations should be dealt with firmly and that an international police force should be maintained to keep a limitation on armaments. "We'll always be prepared from now on," she concluded.

"I'm in favor of reciprocal treatment," Miss Elizabeth Johnson, librarian, declared and added: "I think we should give the people already dealt with (by the Axis) the right to determine what should be done. We should treat them as they promised to treat us if we were defeated."

Miss Edith Gardner, 205 West Circle Avenue, said: "We won't make the mistake of reducing arms again. We'll have to have an international police force for many years to police and rehabilitate the world. Everyone at the peace table is going to grab for his own country. There ought to be a re-education of the younger people of the Axis—they've been brought up to think that the state was everything."

Miss Gardner also suggested that the militaristic parties be removed, saying that the people at large were not militaristic. In speaking of the treatment which should be accorded the leaders of the Axis, she said: "They have been so brutal that it would be difficult to say that they should have mercy shown them. They should definitely be held in check."

Mrs. Caryl Williams, 704 Clinton Avenue, said: "There should be no mercy shown after peace." She expressed the opinion that the leaders should be punished harshly and the people less so. She also felt that Germany and Japan should bear the brunt of this punishment. "Armaments should be kept at present level. We tried being lenient after the last war but it didn't work," she declared.

Mrs. Sol Smith of Jeffersonville with five sons in the service believes that armaments should be reduced. "A peacetime police force might prevent war again but it seems that no matter what agreements are made, they always want to fight again. The leaders must be harshly dealt with and punished as they deserve—but not the people," she said.

Mrs. Delbert Kinnison, also of Jeffersonville and with five sons in the service said: "They ought to be kept down pretty much. If the children in the Axis countries are re-educated to democracy, if they once learn how democracy works, I believe they'd prefer it," she continued.

Mrs. Heber Roe, Leesburg Avenue, who has two sons in the service, believes that the people in Axis countries should be punished as well as the leaders if they were wholeheartedly behind their policies. "Re-education of the younger people is worth trying to let them see how people in democratic countries do live," she said. Mrs. Roe declared: "Armaments should be maintained to a certain level but it's not necessary to keep them at the present level. Time alone

WORK OF CHURCH ON ISLANDS IS MEETING TOPIC

WSCS Accomplishments To Be Surveyed on Church Day Here Next Tuesday

A study of the accomplishments of the WSCS in Cuba and Puerto Rico will be made at Grace Church's church day to be held next Tuesday, beginning at 11 A. M.

When the meeting begins, a 15 minute devotional period will be led by Mrs. Annetta Rowe, devotional chairman of the WSCS here. In the business session slated to follow, reports of all departments will be made. The business meeting will last until 12:15 when a covered dish luncheon will be held. All of the day's activities will be in the Sunday School rooms of the church.

At 1:30 P. M. a program, "The Christian Task in Cuba and Puerto Rico" will be given. Mrs. Arch Riber is program chairman. Seven short speeches on Cuba and Puerto Rico will be given by Miss Edith Gardner, Mrs. Frank Christopher and Mrs. B. E. Kelley, who will speak on Cuba, and Mrs. Robert Meriwether, Mrs. Jean Nisley, Miss Margaret Ashler and Mrs. Tom Bush, who are to talk on Puerto Rico. Each speaker is to represent a part of the work done by the WSCS in these countries—educational, social, evangelistic and rural. During these talks, Mrs. Riber will outline the parts of the island's of which they speak on a blackboard, filling in the territory covered by each speaker.

After these talks, a summary of current events in Cuba and Puerto Rico will be given.

BICYCLES STOLEN IN ONE DAY HERE

One Taken from Court Street And Other from Factory

Two bicycles, belonging to Elmer Lowe and Arnold Chandler were stolen Thursday afternoon and night, Police Chief Jesse Ellis announced today.

Lowe's vehicle was stolen in the afternoon from the Ladoga Canning plant where he is employed. His wheel was described as having a wine colored frame and black fenders.

Chandler's bicycle, a Goodyear deluxe model painted red with black trim, was stolen on Court Street Thursday night. Chandler's home is on the Lewis Pike.

will have to tell about armaments, as some nation always thinks it can swing a war." As for the leaders of the Axis nations, she said, "they should be banished somewhere so that they will have plenty of time to think over what they've done. Shooting's too good for them."
